EDUCATIONAL FURNITURE PROCUREMENT & IMPORT CONSULTANCY

Jigsaw HD Range

Designed to coordinate and compliment

This furniture has been designed to give a coordinated theme throughout the school, it is intended to deliver that 'Wow' factor that has been lacking for so long in the education sector - why should good design be excluded from the educational environment?

Understanding the issues

Experience in schools has suggested that there is a relationship of student academic results to the educational environment in which they learn, actually showing a dramatic improvement when in pleasant surroundings allied to better facilities.

The government have understood this and as a consequence are radically reforming and improving education facilities, the management at Paul Frewer Consulting have paid considerable attention to these findings and listened to the needs of teacher and student alike. As a result considerable investment has been made within the company to give the students and teachers what they need.....

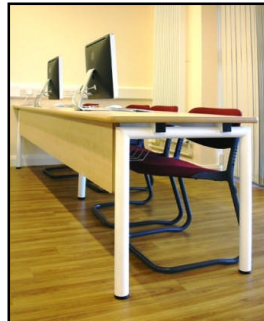

to enhance the learning experience
